FLORIDA PROVES A DIFFICULT OPPONENT

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 10.—The University of Florida lost their first football game of the season here today to the Auburn Tigers by the score of 20 to 0. At the end of the first half Auburn and Florida both had failed to score after having tried nearly every play known to the game.

Auburn made two touchdowns in the third quarter and both goals were easy, totaling a count of 14 to Florida's 0. In the last quarter Auburn scored one more touchdown when Bidez, after a series of line-bucks carried the ball over the line with a beautiful hurdle.

The pluck shown by the light Florida eleven was commendable and their fight to hold at every stage of the game received great applause from the large crowd which gathered to see the opening game of the season.

The Auburn team played in championship form during the second half after playing a rather erratic game in the first half. However, when they found themselves, the backs ripped up the light Florida line at will and introduced a series of open plays, which proved to be too much for the Alligators.

In the last few minutes of the second quarter, Swanson for Florida, intercepted a forward pass and ran sixty-five yards to the Auburn 10-yard line, where he was downed by Arnold who made a beautiful tackle. The playing of Arnold, Harris, Pendergast, Louisell, and Bidez featured for Auburn, the line-bucking of Bidez being the best seen here in some time.

WITH THE SCRUBS.

The second Varsity String this year is composed of former class stars, men who have been taught the Auburn style and methods of handling the pigskin. This squad is under the direction of Coach Tichenor and under his guiding hand these men will be a big factor in moulding a championship eleven for the Orange and Blue this year.

Sample at tackle has seen two years of class football and with this experience he should make a very valuable man in this position before the season is over. His showing to date has been good and he has mastered the Donahue style to a large degree.

Lindsay, at full-back, has done yeoman service for his class team in the past and his unexpected return brought gladness into the Auburn camp. He hits the line low and hard, always a sure ground gainer, which combined with his fierce tackling makes him a dangerous man in the back-field.

Cary Robinson played center on the scrub and freshman teams last year and was chosen for this position on the all-class team. He is an understudy of "Boozer" Pitts, whose style of playing he is rapidly acquiring, and before his football career is ended he should develop into a good center.

Echols, Campbell and Thigpen are being worked at the tackle position for the present. All of these men have had considerable football experience, Thigpen having played three years on the class and scrub teams, while Campbell and

With the Pigskin in Southern Colleges

The southern football dope became twisted badly last Saturday but the greatest surprise of all was the defeat of Sewanee at the hands of Georgia, thereby upsetting all predictions. This is the first time in the history of Sewanee that the Tiger has been beaten in his own lair, and much praise is due the Red and Black team, although they won by one lone point. Straight football was used largely by both teams, line-bucks, and fake line-bucks being used by the Georgia team, the forward-pass failed to work successfully. Captain Henderson, Hitchcock and Gormany starred for the Red and Black, with Captain Folley playing in the stellar role for Sewanee. The results of this game has probably eliminated Sewanee from the Southern title for this season.

Vanderbilt put up a game fight against Michigan, although she lost by a score of 23 to 3. This was much lower than was expected by the most ardent commodore supporters. Captain Sikes and Cody played the best ball for Vandy, the tackling and ground gaining of the former especially featuring.

Michigan used quite a number of reserves, yet the score indicates that the McGugin clan are gradually striking their stride and the game with Auburn in Birmingham should be a hummer.

Tennessee romped over the Clemson Tigers by the score of 27 to 0, thus affirming the earlier predictions that the Volunteers have a team that is to be feared this season. Although the Tennessee eleven used straight football mostly, yet two of their touch-downs came as a result of forward passes, which shows that they can use the open style of play. Lindsay, Thomason, and Rainey played the best ball for the Volunteers and the latter will give someone a run for an all-southern berth this season. Webb and James did the best work for the Clemsonites.

Tech swamped the crippled Mercer bunch by the large score of 105 to 0. The Heisman crew pulled off long runs at will, the work of the line and the interference afforded the backs especially featuring. The work of Captain Fielder, Goree, Patten, Mauck and Bryant featured for the Yellowjackets, while the work of Cochran, for the Baptists stood out brilliantly. The Jackets had a much heavier team which probably accounts for the largeness of the score.

Other games of minor importance were the Mississippi A. and M-Cumberland, the Alabama-Birmingham, the L. S. U.-Mississippi, in which all of the first named teams were victorious by good sized scores.

One of the surprises in the East was the Harvard-Washington and Jefferson game, which was won by Harvard by the close score of 10 to 9. Harvard was greatly handicapped, however, by the absence of Captain Brickley, Mahan, and Logan, their three best players, with the possibility of Brickley being out for the season, due to an operation for appendicitis. He is acknowledged to be the greatest field goal-kicker at this time and probably the greatest of all times, and his services will be sorely missed by the Crimson.

The return of Captain Paddock to Georgia has brought much rejoicing into the Cunningham camp and the Red and Blacks will now have no cause to complain of a General to direct the team, as Paddock's merit as a quarter-back is well known.

PHI KAPPA PHI INSTALLED

Eighteen Faculty Mem- bers Initiated Saturday Night.

Auburn Chapter of the honor fraternity, Phi Kappa Phi was formally installed on Saturday night by Dr. Charles H. Gordon, of University of Tennessee. Auburn is the twelfth college to receive a charter from this society which was born at the University of Maine in 1897.

The work of installation was preceded by a banquet at the Thomas hotel. Immediately following, the initiation of the eighteen faculty members who constitute the charter membership, took place. After the work of installation was complete officers were elected.

The executive committee which is composed of three members of the organization at large and the officers will get to work at once to draft a constitution and set of by-laws, which will be presented to the Fraternity on Oct. 24th. After the adoption of the by-laws, the work of determining those eligible to membership will at once begin.

Following the custom when a new chapter is installed, letters of greeting were received from the

A RECITATION HOUR WELL SPENT

The first summons for special lectures came to us on Friday morning, fifth hour. It was a very pleasant break in our regular work to have the pleasure of listening to such an interesting man as Mr. Alexander, of Chicago, Ill., who is engaged in International Sunday School work. Indeed it was far more pleasant than to have had the opportunity of a quiet snooze in the various class rooms.

Mr. Alexander presented his talk on "General Leadership" in a most alluring manner. He had the real kernel of his thoughts so clothed in witticisms as to make them extremely impressive. None of us will forget his jokes on the Scotchman and few of us will dismiss from our minds his emphatic statement that the American College man must solve the problems that are facing our American democracy. As one of those problems he clearly pointed out the new American who was being formed from the mixing and intermixing of the great number of races that are emigrating into our country.

He placed a different light than many of us have, when, in the course of his remarks, he said: "Those men who are just pulling through have lost out in the problems of solving the real problems of life. Solving of problems comes from the solving of problems. The problems of life, a man will solve are solved when he is between 12 and 20."

It has not been often that Auburn lecturers have been so entertaining as well as instructive as Mr. Alexander, and a man of this kind could be made welcome quite frequently.

When our two souls like barks to-night,
Shall drift away from conscious shores,
Sailing a sea of dream-delight,
Perchance, my boat will pass near yours.

Would that the winds of love might waft,
Our sails so close that we could reach
And bind them surely craft to craft
Until we gained the morrow's beach.

Said one "Rat" to another,
"Come listen my brother,"
While some news in your ear I do pour.
As a wise little bird
'Inspection,' I heard
'Tis enough! I shall tell you no more."

"Oh, I knew all the while
What you say is a joke & I guess'er
The first got away
But I'm sorry to say
The second ate off the dresser.

Freshies Elect Officers.

For two long, perfectly good recitation hours and a serious onslaught on the third, the (sagacious) members of our infant class met in secret conclave Friday morning. With an unwonted amount of bravery they talked and discussed the possible necessity of breaking forth from their down trodden state and to put new customs; such as: inspecting upper class men and as-

Phi Kappa Phi

In the introduction of this Fraternity into Auburn College life another link is forged in the chain connecting our beloved alma-mater with other institutions of learning. Not only are ties formed with other college men actively engaged in the pursuit of learning, but ties of comradeship are formed with those of our fellow students who stand for what is best in manhood, morally first, intellectually, second.

It is not the purpose of this fraternity to segregate itself from those college men who have not attained as high a rank of learning, but rather, to spur on the man who is less ambitious by giving him a goal to work for.

This Fraternity or society, (if you please) does not aim to make an aristocracy of learning or education, but, rather by making its requirements to embody standards of morals as well as standards of scholarship, to establish a real democracy of learning, so that each and every man has an equal chance. To prevent the drawing of aristocratic lines, no functions are supported, which in any way would tend to hinder the growth of a democratic spirit. It is not possible for it to degenerate into a social organization.

This Fraternity doesn't go back to the home of its prospective candidates to find out what he is, but it takes him as he has recorded himself in his college associations. A man's grades are first examined and if they come up to the requirements, he is next examined on his manhood.

The Preamble of the constitution is a brief synopsis of what the Fraternity stands for. It is as follows: This constitution is adopted to provide a Fraternity dedicated to the unity and democracy of education and is open to honor graduates of all departments of American Universities and Colleges.

No secret work characterizes the life of this organization. Its work is fraternal in that broader sense, the universal brotherhood.

Again we ask, where is the old football spirit? In fact we can begin right here and ask more questions than even Solomon could answer. However, even this will not deter us from making some of these very impertinent interrogations. Our practice games are poorly attended. They are marked with very little real rooting. The two games already played on the campus were conspicuous by the absence of real genuine enthusiastic cheering. Who is to blame for this neglect? Each man can answer to his own satisfaction. The centre of town is not so free from loafers during practice hours as it might be. How about it fellows? Why not loaf on Drake Field, and say before starting over, oil up the vocal box and make some noise, so that a gang of those less inclined, unenlightened, and misguided youths will follow in your wake and help you make Drake Field and its near-by hills resound with that noise that shows our gridiron boys that we are with them, man to man through thick and thin. This will do a lot to put the pep and ginger into our bunch, which every football squad so sorely needs. We apologize to those who already are doing their duty by the team, and beg of them to lead others to the same end.

A man may live and yet refuse the gift of life. To exist is not to live; they only live who take life with all its experiences, with courage and joy, who not only put aside the fear of living but welcome the opportunities of living as a brave man welcomes a perilous chance to help or inspire or lead in a moment of danger. The fear of living is the source of that cowardice which empties the lives of many people of spiritual meaning, and human dignity. They may be blameless so far as external morals are concerned, and yet they are guilty of refusing the supreme gift which God puts into their hands. The pure in heart are not those who have never known temptation, but those who, fiercely tempted, have as fiercely resisted; or who, having fallen, have risen again and through purification made themselves clean. The heroes are not those who have kept away from danger, but have faced it, suffered and triumphed.—The Outlook.

Auburn spirit is a legend with which we are all well acquainted. It is not only legendary, but it is a living reality, vital and active. There is no Auburn man who is so base that he could be called false to the standard raised by our predecessors. None of us would be such parasites as to rest on the glory of this noble quality, for we feel that we must contribute our share in making it even greater and far more reaching. Then the question naturally arises as to how we shall gain this much desired goal.

Other colleges have the same situation to meet. Most of them reach the college spirit through class spirit. If others can do that, we can do it. Everybody knows that nothing is impossible when backed by Auburn spirit.

A favorite method among leading colleges for arousing class spirit is class socials. These usually take the form of smokers or banquets, at which every man has an opportunity to become acquainted with every other man in his class. How many of us know our own class mates, not to mention our school mates in other classes? We would all enjoy college life more if we had a closer comradeship with our classmates and a better fellowship with our school mates.

A key-note was struck in Langdon Hall Friday morning when Mr. Alexander gave us the motto, "Shoulders together," "Shoulders together," "Shoulders together!" Perhaps it was his interpretation of this "war cry" that gave it its significance, but, be that as it may, how deep is the sentiment lying underneath. When our shoulders are together, we must stand erect, the position to give blows, yes! and the only manly posture to receive them. Likewise in this position we are ready for any fate; the coward marches to his doom bent and with faltering steps, while the man goes erect and unhesitatingly. With his shoulders together, the real man, tho' overburdened with misfortune, awaits fearlessly the turning of fortune's wheel.

What is the matter with that time-honored Auburn Spirit.

We're "Ossifiers" Now.

Lo! they read us out at roll-call
And they put us on the board
To be gifted with some chevrons
And to have a pretty sword.

CHORUS:—

Oh! we're the merry razor-backs
At drill we daily toil
We grill 'em and we drill 'em
We've Botsai, Brooks and Boyle.

Oh! how we used to long for this
As we pinned in company "K"
Until the dear old Colonel
Made us what we are today.

CHORUS:—

Now while this metre's not so much
It is a useful rhyme
For it serves a useful purpose
When we march in double time.

CHORUS:—(All join in please).

In the midst of football and other activities let us not forget that in just a week or so, we will be called upon to divulge our knowledge on divers sundry subjects at mid-terms.

"Judge of the (exami)nations, be with us yet,
Lest we forget—lest we forget!"

We might suggest to the Russian soldiers that they dye their whiskers green, thereby deceiving the enemy into thinking that the army is an alfalfa field.

"The Co-Eds"

By

Miss Frances Duncan, '15.

Miss Annie Terrell, who graduated here last year, will leave Monday for Manatee, Florida. She is going to teach Art and Music there this winter. In addition to the training that she received here, she spent the past summer in Knoxville, Tennessee, where she specialized in Art and methods of teaching. Thus prepared and possessing great capability, we prophecy much success for her.

Mrs. S. J. Smith spent Saturday and Sunday in Birmingham.

The co-eds are planning to organize a basketball team. They are going to send in a petition to Coach Donahue, asking for permission to use the gymnasium certain days in the week. There are enough girls for two teams and they are hoping to have some interesting games.

With the Scrubs.

Echols have played prep ball, in addition to one year on the class teams. These men are all hard workers and before the year is over they will make some regular hustle to hold down his position.

Fricke and Howe, the guards, are men of experience also. The former played in a varsity game last year and has served two years on his class team. He has the requisite weight for the guard position and with more experience he will prove to be a valuable man. Howe has seen three years of faithful service on his class team and has always been a hard fighter. Formerly he played center but this year he is being worked at guard and center.

Howle and Monk, at the ends were class stars last year and were both accorded all-class honors. Howle has had two years of class and scrub football and has always given his best. Monk played end on the freshman team last year, and notwithstanding this being his first experience in football, he developed into a good end. He is a hard, sure tackler.

Major and McLain, the half-backs, are both consistent ground gainers. Major has scrubbed three years and was Captain of the Sophomore team last year. In addition to his other qualities his toe work is good and he can always be depended on to boot the oval well into the opponents territory. McLain played on the Freshman team last year and has, this year, shown considerable improvement over his previous form.

Blanchard, at quarter, is a heady player and well qualified for his position. He was Captain of the Freshman team last year and his work thus far has been of the best.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

WIRT SOCIETY

The Wirt Literary Society held a very enthusiastic and instructive debate Saturday night, when they threshed out the subject, "Resolved that college graduates should be allowed to teach in the schools of Alabama without examination." H. B. Emerson and C. E. Wilson spoke for the affirmative. The negative side was represented by E. W. Smith and L. W. Fogarty, who lost in the judges' decision. President of the Society, W. L. Howard, delivered an address on "Why divorces should not be granted in the United States."

J. A. Wilkinson was elected critic for the Wirt Society. Records of each speaker, good or bad, are to be kept in a book by the critic.

WEBSTERIAN SOCIETY

The Websterian Society held a good meeting Saturday night, when they debated, "Resolved, that military tactics should be taught in the public schools." The affirmative which was represented by W. L. White and J. E. Shotts, pointed out how easily foreign countries could devour us up unless more military tactics be taught.

The negative side was defended by R. G. Carpenter and F. White. The negative side won.

The program for Saturday night, Oct. 17th, for both Societies will be the preliminary contest between the juniors for speakers in the Thanksgiving debate. The subject of the Wirts for the "try out" is, "Resolved that Literary Society work should be compulsory."

The subject of the Websterians for the "try out" is, "Resolved that municipalities should be governed by commissions."

Fuller played the best ball for Florida.

1st. Quarter.—Capt. Robinson won the toss and chose the north goal. Auburn kicked off to Florida's 45 yard line and Oats returned ball 15 yards. Florida, after a series of futile line bucks was forced to punt and Swanson booted the oval 35 yards. Auburn returned the ball about 15 yards and proceeded to rip up the Florida line. Harris carried ball about 30 yards by successive gains. Prendergast fumbled and the ball went over to Florida. Auburn then recovered ball on fumble and repeated gains were made through the line until the ball was on Florida's one yard line when the quarter was up.

2nd. Quarter—Florida got the ball on a fumble. Swanson kicked 45 yards. Auburn failed to work a forward pass. Auburn tried forward pass on fourth down but was broken up by Sparkman. Ball went over to Florida. Swanson kicked 20 yards. By successive line bucks Auburn neared Florida's goal. Swanson intercepted forward pass and ran 65 yards. He was downed by Arnold. Florida tried forward pass which was incomplete. Half up.

3rd. Quarter—Freeman kicked off for Florida and Auburn with fine interference returned ball to 50-yard line. Auburn was forced to kick. Florida made first down but was then forced to kick. Swanson punted 40 yards. Auburn returned ball to Florida's 45 yard line and by line plunging Hart took the ball over for the first touch down. Arnold kicked goal. Auburn kicked off to Florida's 15 yard line. After trying the line unsuccessfully, Swanson kicked out of bounds. Auburn's ball. Arnold gained 30 yards on beautiful run. Quarter ended with ball on Florida's 15 yard line in Auburn's possession.

4th Quarter—By repeated line plunges Auburn reached Florida's one yard line. Bidez then crashed through for touchdown. Arnold kicked goal. Freeman kicked off to Auburn. Auburn was held for downs and forced to punt. Florida was compelled to kick again. The Auburn backs then began to plow up the Florida line and Bidez went over the goal line for the third touchdown. Louisell failed at goal. Freeman kicked to Auburn who brought ball back to center of field. The game ended with the ball on Florida's 40 yard line in Auburn's possession.

COLLEGE NOTES

ENGINEERING.

Prof. Fullan has recently been appointed as a member of the National Educational Committee on Physics by Prof. J. A. Randall, of Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, N. Y., who is chairman of the joint National Committees on Education.

Along with this appointment, Prof. Fullan has been requested to supply 1,000 copies of his mimeographed pamphlets on Home-Made Physics Apparatus. These pamphlets are of the same kind that were sent out to the Alabama High Schools last year. It is the intention of Prof. Randall to circulate these copies throughout all the states in the Union.

An incidental feature is that all these pamphlets bear the name of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, which necessarily gives it a very desirable advertising value.

The departments of Education in Louisiana and North Carolina have both written to Prof. Fullan for copies of his course in Manual Training and Farm Mechanics.

AGRICULTURE.

The Agricultural Department is preparing a bulletin on wheat which will be sent out later. This bulletin will contain data on specimens of wheat of all varieties grown in the State of Alabama. After a recent inspection by an expert of the Chicago Board of Trade, which handles most of the wheat coming through Chicago markets and which ranks as No. 2 on an average, eight out of the nine varieties grown in Alabama ranked first.

The Secretary of the Board of Trade writes, "A State that can grow such wheat as this is to be congratulated." However, 1914 was a very favorable year for wheat at Auburn and the yields ranged chiefly between 30 and 35 bushels or about twice their usual yield.

Two of Prof. Walker's former students have recently been appointed to positions in the U. S. Department of Agriculture. They have been assigned to the investigational work in truck growing and pomology.

Some samples of butter made on the Station Farm by Prof. E. S. Girton and Supt. C. J. Bottoms were awarded first prize at the Birmingham State Fair last week.

Prof. G. S. Templeton will take the Junior Class in Animal Husbandry to the State Exposition in Montgomery this week. Prof. Templeton will act as Judge of Beef Cattle at the fair.

AGRICULTURAL CLUB

The "Ag" Club had another enthusiastic, well attended meeting, Friday night. Prof. Funchess' talk on "The importance of Chemistry and the accurate sciences in the "Ag" course" was of the type of his class-room lectures, concentrated and to the point. Bazemore's account of the "Stock Judging Trip" was spicy. He discussed at length, the types of stock that were seen at the University of Missouri, and dwelt largely on the benefit gained by the team through their trip to Columbia, Mo.

GLEE CLUB.

This organization is very promising, having a total enrollment of 67 members, which are very evenly divided among the four parts. Two very promising solo voices are included in the club this year, and two excellent quartets have been developed. A specialty this year will be piano duets as the club has two excellent men who can handle the keys.

The club will again be trained by Prof. Bauer of Montgomery.

Two trips are being planned, the first trip has been arranged to come the last week in November and includes the following points: Dadeville, Sylacauga, Talladega, Gadsden, Anniston and Huntsville. The second trip will be taken after Christmas and will include the large colleges for girls. At an early date the mandolin and guitar club will be organized to work along with the Glee Club.

The members of the band are hard at work preparing for their first trip, which will be about October 21 or 22. They have been engaged to play for the Reunion of the State Veterans in Mobile.

A great variety of secular, classical and rag-time music is being gotten into form by the members of the College Orchestra. The boys are certainly to be congratulated on their work of this season. It is extremely gratifying that they are able to do such creditable work so early in the season.

"The Footlights."

An unusually well attended meeting of the Footlights was held on Thursday night. The "try out" for the first play "David Garrick," which will be given early in the year has been begun. A large amount of very promising material has been located, however, it will be about two weeks before the parts are definitely decided upon and given out.

Freshies Elect officers.

(Continued from Page 1.) suming senior privileges into practice. Besides these judicious steps of self assertion they would fain inspect other realms distasteful to their aesthetic senses. We would wish to give a friendly note of warning to our faculty members that it would be wise to conduct themselves very properly and pleasantly during the future hours of Freshman recitation periods.

After the above weighty problems were disposed of by our astute Freshmen they very casually proceeded with their election. During the course of which each man put up his best friend for the various offices in and out of the category of regular freshmen class offices with the hope that he in turn would be recognized for his act of bravery and hurled from his modest position of an ordinary rat into the thrilling experience of being a candidate for official entitlements and of holding the great honor of showing his attributes, of desirable qualifications for official distinction, on the rostrum.

For the office of President, fifteen worthy thanes were favored by their classmates and fourteen of them tasted the brief joys of being a candidate and drank the bitter dregs of disappointment in a short time as the polling of votes rang their knell of glory. Not satisfied with a majority the sagacious youths desiring to see all fairness exercised, ran the two leading candidates through the mill again.

We might add that this spirit of equality was prevalent from the election of the president to the election of editor of Orange and Blue.

The lucky braves who have received official titles of the worthy but green class of 1918 are as follows:

Poet—Miss Rothrock.
